

Name: Ethan White-Hill
Position: Indigenous Student Representative

Profile Statement

Hi, I'm Ethan White-Hill, currently in the nursing program. I am a registered member of Snuneymuxw First Nation. My traditional Coast Salish Hul'qumi'num name is Xulqalustun. As an Indigenous student, I want to ensure Indigenous students have a consistent voice at the Student Union and that this position is meaningfully represented. I am committed to listening to Indigenous students, bringing their concerns forward, and working collaboratively to strengthen support and opportunities throughout the student experience.

Platform Statement

My name is Ethan White-Hill running for the Indigenous Student Representative position. My platform is grounded in one fundamental priority: ensuring the Indigenous Student Representative seat is filled and that Indigenous students have a consistent voice at the table.

I want to create a stronger connection between Indigenous students, the Student Union, and the College. I will listen to the experiences and concerns of Indigenous students and bring those perspectives forward in discussions that affect our community.

I also want to work collaboratively with the College to identify and address barriers Indigenous students may encounter throughout their educational journey, from pre-admission and application, through enrolment and graduation, to the transition into alumni life. This includes examining access to information, services, resources, supports, and opportunities, while recognizing that students' experiences and needs are diverse.

As a registered member of Snuneymuxw First Nation and a Coast Salish student, I would bring my own perspective while ensuring this role represents the broader Indigenous student community. My goal is to help establish meaningful, ongoing representation rather than allowing this seat to remain vacant.
